Risk profile*

Synthetic risk & reward indicator (SRI)	Lower risk			4	Higher risk
	1	2	3		5	6	7

The risk indicator assumes you keep the Sub-Fund for the recommended minimum investment period of 3 years. The actual risk can vary significantly if you cashing-in at early stage and you may get back less.

You may not be able to sell your Sub-Fund easily or you may have to sell at a price that significantly impacts on how much you get back.

The summary risk indicator is a guide to the level of risk of this Sub-Fund compared to other products. It shows how likely it is that the product will lose money because of movements in the markets or because we are not able to pay you. The historical data used for the calculation of this indicator may not constitute a reliable indication of the future risk profile of the Sub-Fund. The risk category associated with the Sub-Fund is not guaranteed and may change over time. The lowest category does not mean "risk free".

We have classified this product as [4] out of 7, which is a medium risk class, due to its exposure to a diversified portfolio of UCIs and managed accounts. This rates the potential losses from future performance at a medium level, and it is possible that poor market conditions could impact our capacity to pay you.

Among the major risks identified by the European texts, the Sub-Fund may be exposed to the following risks, which are not adequately captured by the risk indicator: credit risk, counterparty risk and liquidity risk.

The SRI does not take into account the tax treatment of the Sub-Fund according to the wealth and tax situation of the targeted retail investor. You may not be able to sell it easily or you may have to sell it at a price that will significantly affect the amount you will receive in return. The Sub-Fund does not include any return or capital guarantee against the vagaries of the market. You could lose all or part of the capital invested.

* Please refer to the Prospectus of the Sub-Fund for the details of the risks associated to this Sub-Fund.

MONTHLY REPORTING as of September 30, 2025

GEMS OLYMPIA UCITS FUND - Diversified Flexible Strategy

As of January 19, 2021, the exposure of the Diversified Flexible Strategy sub-fund to the equity markets may represent up to 100% of its net assets, whereas previously the FCP's prospectus indicated that: "The exposure of the Sub-fund to the equity markets is limited. to 80% of its net assets. At least 20% of the net assets of the Sub-Fund will be exposed to debt securities and / or money markets". Please refer to the Prospectus of the Gems Olympia UCITS Fund for a complete and detailed list of the risk associated to the Fund and its Sub-Funds.

Monthly investment commentary

The Diversified Flexible Strategy ("DFS") sub-fund of the Gems Olympia UCITS Fund gained 7,45% in September 2025 (Unit I-USD).

Equities extended their rally to a 5th month. A combination of mild inflation data and weaker-than-expected employment data sealed the decision of the Fed to lower interest rate for the first time this year. The move had been largely anticipated by investors, with US equity indices pushing to new records already early in the month while treasury yields fell to their lowest level since April. The S&P 500 rose 3.5% for the month and the Nasdaq Composite logged a 5.6% gain.

Equities in DFS outperformed both indices, led by gains at Tesla (+122bps gross contribution), Robinhood (+100bps) and a series of datacenter companies buoyed by the ongoing infrastructure arm race among hyperscalers. Only a handful of DFS holdings declined during the month, including payment companies Mastercard (-20bps) and Visa (-10bps). DFS commodity strategy posted a small positive contribution amidst low oil prices.

DFS's equity allocation (94% net) slightly increased going into October and remains at the high end of its historical range.
